Dear Madam/Sir <<Last Name>>,

Here at Robo Educational Toys, we understand the need to ensure our neurodiverse kids, such as those on the autism spectrum, or those with ADHD, are properly washing their hands. It has become doubly important ever since the pandemic hit, as washing hands became a life-or-death, rather than clean-or-germ, issue. Schools everywhere have been cautiously reopening, and are following strict guidelines in light of the spreading Delta variant.

No matter who is in your school, our product Time Timer WASH, a hand washing assistant, was designed to be understood by kids of all ages and across a wide variety of neurological backgrounds.

Kids with OCD will experience the relief of having a pre-set, step-by-step instruction for hand washing that will allow them to focus on the hand washing itself, without overdoing it.

Similarly, kids who experience anxiety will be pleased to know that the instructions they are following are in line with CDC hand washing rules, and that performing the actions will ensure that they are practicing good hygiene and will prevent themselves and others from spreading the disease.

Germaphobia can often co-exist with autism or ADHD. Those who experience this phobia will feel reassured that their classmates will be following the CDC's recommended rules, which will provide a big relief from their germ-related fears that have likely become exacerbated since the onset of COVID. Additionally, they don't even need to touch the WASH to start it—the timer starts simply by holding a hand in front of it.

Children who struggle with time perception will benefit enormously from the Time Timer WASH. As a Time Timer user and a mom of a child with Autism told us, “The Time Timer WASH has been such a breath of fresh air for our house. I don't have to wonder if he is washing his hands because when I hear the fun song, I know he is washing them.”

Children with ADHD are well known to struggle with tracking time in either the short term or long term, and without guidance from WASH, some may feel as though thirty seconds has passed when they're only ten seconds in. With a visual reminder that they still have another twenty seconds to go, there's a stronger chance that they'll successfully practice good hand hygiene.

No matter a child's level of cognitive ability or skill level, students will be able to successfully wash their hands and stay germ-free with the WASH.

Want to make sure every student in your school is practicing good hygiene? Put the Time Timer WASH in your school bathrooms, and see the results. They can sit on a sink, be stuck via a suction cup to a wall, or be hung on the wall. Whatever your preference, be sure to click the link below for more info:
